Women's Oxfords at $2.99

Offered in Competition With Other Standard $3.50 Grades.—2d Fl., 35th St.

We aimed to produce this season a line of Oxfords to rank honors even with the standard $3.50 grades sold elsewhere, yet to sell for considerably less. By going direct to the manufacturer, with models and materials of our own selection, we have avoided the tariff imposed by middlemen, and at the same time secured entire control of Footwear constructed with unusual care. Our Cash system of selling, combined with our usual low profit prices, lessens the selling price still further. We invite faith in these at $2.99 a pair:

Oxfords of tan Russia calf, in the popular shades; walking models with flexible welted soles, newest lasts and Cuban or military heels.

Oxfords of the new gun metal kid; walking models, welted soles, self tips, military heels.

To the Need of Quiet Furniture

We have created a series of beautiful bedroom suites, in enamels of white, gray or ivory. The range of design is covered from the classic Louis XVI. to the straight line simplicity of our Hampton furniture, wherein the long, low Bureaux—Beds with cane panels—and the ample Chests of Drawers, urge an influence for simple refinement and perfect construction.

THREW SILKS FROM WINDOW.

Truett Was Preparing to Slide Down After Them When He Was Nabbed.

An ex-sailor was arrested early yesterday morning as he was about to slide down a rope from the rear window of a big Sixth avenue department store. He had thrown from the window about $1,000 worth of goods.

The man made a desperate fight to escape from Store Detective Kash, who arrested him, and after he was overpowered a revolver, a jimmy, an electric lantern and fifty feet of rope were found in his possession.

The man was John Truett of 209 East Twenty-fifth street. He says that he's a Russian and that he had been a sailor for five years before he went to work as a porter for the department store. Six months ago he was discharged, but he obtained entrance to the store late last night and concealed himself on the roof.

He Remained Hidden Until All the Night

sweepers and porters in the store had gone downstairs, and then descended to the first and second floors, where he gathered up silk shirtwaists, silk undershirts, bolts of silk and silk handkerchiefs, wrapped them in a counter cover and threw the bundle into a rear yard on Twentieth street.

Then he looped a rope around a radiator pipe, and prepared to slide down from the second floor.

The store has been robbed several times lately, and Detective Kash has been spending his nights behind counters watching for the burglar. Just as Truett was climbing over the window sill Kash came upon him. The detective hauled Truett in, but the man drew a revolver and pointed it at his face.

FIGHT TO GET GIRL HOME.

Lively Row Outside the Essex Market Court When She Was Freed.

Ester Diamond ran away from her home at 177 Clinton street about a week ago and on Monday her father located her in the room of Harry Kirschbaum at 110 Canal street. The police arrested the girl, Kirschbaum, his wife Pauline, and Jacob Kirschbaum. The Kirschbaums were charged with abduction and the girl was held as a witness.

In the police court yesterday Diamond was present with about fifty excited friends. The girl said she left home because her parents objected to the attentions of a young man and that she stayed with the Kirschbaums, who were respectable.

Magistrate Mayo discharged them. Then the father wanted to have the girl committed to an institution as a wayward child.

"She is only 17," he said.

"I am 21 years old," she replied, indignantly.

"I think you are, and you look it," said the Magistrate, "and I will discharge you." When they got outside the father grabbed the girl by the arm. She is a foot taller than he and she promptly hit him in the jaw, knocking him down. Then the crowd surged around her and almost tore the clothes from her.

Sergeant McCarthy of the court squad and about twenty policemen managed to dig the girl out and Detective McCarthy of the Madison street station asked her to walk with him as far as the entrance to her home in order to pacify the crowd.

She consented, but when she arrived there the crowd seized her and carried her struggling and screaming to the parents' flat where she was locked in. A committee was appointed to guard the exits from the building so she could not get away again.

CHASED BY RUNAWAY TRAIN.

Pennsylvania Engineer Saves His Passengers From a Terrible Bump.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., April 19.—The engineer of a passenger train on the Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad saved the train and 100 passengers by what is regarded as the most skillful feat in the annals of Pennsylvania mountain railroading yesterday.

Engineer William Darbyshire was taking his train up the steep mountain grade known as Newfield Hill, near Galeton. Around a double curve, half a mile ahead, he saw a runaway log train coming toward him at fearful speed. Darbyshire reversed his engine and backed down the steep grade at frightful velocity. For six miles his train led the race. Then the runaway log train overtook the passenger train. By that time the speeds were so nearly equal that scarcely a shock was felt.

The passengers were terror stricken, believing that their own train was running away. When they learned the truth they gathered about the engineer and cheered for him heartily.

BISSERT WANTS A POLICE JOB.

Makes Formal Application and Asks for $4,200 Back Pay.

George Bissert, the wardman who was convicted of accepting a bribe from Lena Schmidt, made a formal application yesterday to Commissioner McAdoo to be reinstated as a member of the Police Department. He also asked for $4,200 back pay.

Bissert was a plain clothes man under Capt. Diamond when the latter was at the Fifth street station. Bissert was sentenced to Sing Sing, but on appeal his conviction was
